

Every time I walk in my room I can feel the breeze from the fan and when I look at the wall I can see such creative posters.

When I wake up I can see my room and the stuff inside and what that stuff is: my playstation and my clothes and my tv. I always play my games on it.

One time my tv broke I had to get a new one it wasn't a flat screen like I wanted. My old tv is in my closet.

I am tired I thought that day so I took a shower and brushed my teeth and I went back to my room so I could go to sleep so that's what I did.

Then in my dream I thought my room is my favorite place because my bed and my tv and my little Christmas tree.
